

The King¹ of Prussia advanced Prince Paul to the rank of general, but he was taken prisoner at the \rry eutnmr!M'<-! iH'Hf of hostilities. Prince Paul was not, as has hern erroneously stated, conducted to Stuttgart, by a captain of Lji-ndarnn-n,-. He came to Hamburg, where I received many visits from him. He did not yet possess very definite ideas as to what h^ wished; for after he was made prisoner he expressed t«» in«» his strong desire to enter the Freneh service, and often a.-ikru me to solicit for him an interview with the Kmperor. !!»* obtained this interview, and. remained tor a hmi: time in Paris, where I know he has frequently resiiled «inet» tin-.Restoration.¹

The individuals whom I hail to observe in Haiulnirt? jjav«» me much less trouble than our neighbors at- Altona. Tin* number of the latter had considerably augmented, sinn* the events of the war had compelled a great number of emigrants who had taken refuge at Minister to leave that town. They all proceeded to Altona. Conquered eountru'S hfeainr as dangerous to them as the hind which they hud forsaken. Tb«» most distinguished amongst the individuals assembled at. Altona wen* Vicomte de Sesinaisnns, tin* Hailly «.ril,tti!e-feuille, the Dmdie.ss of Luxembourg, I lie Manpiis i|i* linn, nard, tlie Due, <l'Aumont ['i!>»n lhje *le Villqnit*r], lln¹ wile of Marshal de Broglie and her <langhf«T, C'ardnial il*» Mi>nti«o-nmc.y, Madame de (*oss<% her two daughters and ln«r mm (anil a priest), and the Bishop of Boulogne.

Bonaparte staid lon^ enough at Berlin to permit <»f th«* arrival of a dc.| >utation from the Freneh Senate towm^ruiulat }iim on his first triumphs. I learned that in thin instanc tip* Senatorial deputation, departing frt»m its iu*nistnitif(t eoir]>laisantM*, ventured not to confine itsrlf to ^oin)ilini(*ntK and felicitations, but went so far us to iit«rfW« with tin Emperors plan of the eautpuign, to speak of tin* dunp-r that mij^ht b(t iiMturred in paK«in^ the odi-r, and finally to express u desire to HC»P, peace conclude*!. Napoleon rwteivtnl this rom-

¹ Kapp (p. 11f>) Klvm ailiffi't'iif urrottut, and HUVK that flu* l*rh$ iwm< t<> (^UKtriii and wished to«««n NUJM){I>DU, who wfuWl thi* !ttt<*rvit'W, IIIH! hml urrcntfd und mmt Into bin fathcr'n HUiton, whnr« he WM dtalulMl lor years.